

Invitation to the Final Product

Introduction

If you are part of the first group of buyers with delivery scheduled for October 2025, we invite you to take part in the final testing of the product you purchased. You'll be able to see firsthand the complete operation of your vending machine, validate details, and make sure everything is just as you expect before delivery.

Exclusive benefit for buyers with delivery in October 2025

As part of our commitment to quality and transparency, buyers who have reserved their vending machine for delivery in October 2025 will be invited to participate in the final testing of the product they purchased.

This experience includes:

- Exclusive access to our production facilities, where you'll be able to tour the full assembly process, software integration, quality control, and general operation of the machines.

- Real-time review of the machine's complete operation, from initial loading in the refrigerator to final delivery, covering every step of the process.

- The opportunity to speak with our engineers and development team, ask questions, and make specific observations.

- Possibility to make observations before delivery, with the chance to submit recommendations or minor adjustments.

- Personalized quality control certification, certifying that your unit was tested and approved together with you.

Experience the Final Testing: Get to Know Your Machine Before Receiving It

This will be a unique day where you'll have the chance to thoroughly explore the product you purchased. You'll be able to closely observe each stage of its operation, speak directly with our technical team, and ensure that everything is ready to perform with excellence from day one.

Instead of simply waiting for delivery, we invite you to be the protagonist of the final stage:

You'll see your machine operating in real conditions

You'll test its performance under real operational settings

You'll validate its quality, design, and functionality together with our specialists

We want you to see, test, and personally approve your investment. Because we understand that every client is unique—and so is every machine. This experience is your guarantee of trust, quality, and commitment.

*Would you like to see and test your machine before receiving it?
Do you want to make sure everything works perfectly from day one?*

Reserve your machine today and secure your spot

Hooggs®

High-performance automatic gastronomic solutions

Innovation that cooks, technology that works. Smart units. Real experiences. Concrete results.

www.hooggs.com

hooggs@hooggs.com

USA/Argentina